

Dustin Sachs

Dynamic keynote speaker blending cybersecurity and behavioral science

Dr. Dustin Sachs is a distinguished cybersecurity leader, researcher, and educator specializing in Cyber Risk Behavioral Psychology. As Chief Cybersecurity Technologist and Senior Director of Programs at CyberRisk Collaborative, he develops innovative tools, research, and community-driven initiatives to advance cybersecurity leadership and professional development. He also serves as an Adjunct Professor at Lone Star College, where he teaches applied cybersecurity, bridging theory with real-world practice.

With a career spanning critical infrastructure, finance, and enterprise risk management, Dr. Sachs has led successful cybersecurity programs at organizations such as World Fuel Services, Performance Food Group, and CenterPoint Energy. His areas of expertise include incident response, third-party risk management, security program development, and vulnerability management.

Holding a Doctor of Computer Science in Cybersecurity and an MBA with a cybersecurity specialization, Dr. Sachs integrates human behavior into cybersecurity strategies. He holds CISSP, C|CISO, and AWS Cloud Practitioner certifications, and contributes actively to ISC2, ISACA, and FBI InfraGard.
